

US Public History with US Women's and/or Latino History:

The University of Louisville is seeking a tenure-track Assistant Professor in US Public History with a research specialization in either US Women's or Latino History to contribute to our growing graduate program in public history. This faculty member will teach graduate courses in public history, upper division courses in his/her research subfield, and the introductory US Survey or Historical Methods courses. The department is particularly interested in candidates with training/expertise in museum studies or museum education. Ph.D. preferred, but ABDs considered. Send letter of application, curriculum vitae, official graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation by March 1 to Chair, Public History Search Committee, Department of History, University of Louisville, Louisville KY 40292. The University requires all candidates also to apply online at www.louisville.edu/jobs. Please choose Job ID # 27836 Assistant Professor. If you have any questions with the online application, please e-mail history@louisville.edu. The University of Louisville is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity, Americans with Disabilities Employer, committed to diversity and in that spirit, seeks applications from a broad variety of candidates.