Adjunct instructor of Public History (non-tenure track; temporary, part time)

The Department of History at the University of Massachusetts Boston seeks applicants with expertise in public history to teach a graduate seminar, “Introduction to Public History and Popular Memory” for the Fall 2024 semester. Applicants with expertise in public history teaching and/or those with demonstrated experience working in the field are invited to apply. An MA in a related field is required; PhD or ABD preferred. This position is not renewable, although there may be opportunities to teach this and/or other public history courses in the future. Course meets for 3 hours, once a week, in person.

Start date: September 1, 2024
End date: December 27, 2024 (grades due)

Salary: $5350/course, plus research/book stipend

To apply: Please submit a curriculum vitae and a cover letter that addresses previous teaching experience and expertise, and public history experience, to Jane Becker, Director of Public History, History Department, University of Massachusetts Boston, via email: jane.becker@umb.edu

Opening and closing date (of posting): February 28, 2024 to April 30, 2024
