About Our Keynote Speaker

Kathe Hambrick is a non-profit executive, preservationist, public historian, museologist, and public speaker. She currently serves as the Executive Director of the Amistad Research Center located at Tulane University. She is the Founder of the River Road African American Museum, River Road African Burial Grounds Coalition, and 2PRESERVE Consulting LLC. For the past thirty years, her research has led to the preservation of five historic buildings and three historic burial grounds.

She is experienced in community relations and is a liaison to corporations, museums, governmental agencies, community leaders, and faith-based organizations. Hambrick is considered an expert on slavery in rural south Louisiana. She has been interviewed by local, national, and international media in United Kingdom, France, and Japan.

Hambrick previously served as President of the Association of African American Museums (AAAM). In addition, she served as the Chief Curator and Director of Interpretation for the West Baton Rouge Museum for four years. Throughout her 30-year career, she has curated over 100 exhibits, including The Rural Roots of Jazz, Rural Black Doctors, and Louisiana's first permanent exhibit about the GU272 enslaved people sold by the Jesuits of Georgetown University.

Hambrick is the author and co-author of several books: Juke Joint Men, Oh Say Can You See: Flag Paintings of Malaika Favorite, Our Roots Run Deep: History of the River Road African American Museum, and a curriculum guide entitled, Freedom's Journey: Understanding the Underground Railroad in South Louisiana. Hambrick received a Master of Arts in Museums Studies in 2012, where she later became adjunct professor.

Saturday Lunch Dine-Around

In a long NCPH tradition, lunch on Saturday will involve the option to participate in a "Dine-Around" where you can sign up to head to particular restaurants.

To give you time to get to a restaurant and enjoy conversation, there is a 2 hour lunch break Saturday. When you sign up, feel free to note topics of interest to you to discuss.

Lunch Dine-Around Options:

Acadian Superette, $10-20, 600 Lamar St, 12 minute walk from conference building

Acadian Superette serves traditional Cajun fare, done well. Not good for vegetarians/vegans.

Pop's PoBoys, $10-20, 740 Jefferson St, 15-20 minute walk from conference building

Pop's serves updated takes on a Louisiana classic-the PoBoy. They also have salads. One of their salads and one of their poboys are vegetarian-friendly.

Old Tyme Grocery, $10-20, 218 W. Saint Mary, 12 minute walk from conference building

Old Tyme serves very traditional poboys and is a good option if you are looking for seafood...not so good for vegetarian options.

Saturday Lunch Dine-Around

The French Press, $15-30, 214 E. Vermilion St, 20 minute walk from conference building

James Beard-nominated brunch restaurant with Cajun-inflected French classics. Service can be slower and it closes at 2 pm, so you will want to head over as soon as the morning sessions end.

Spoonbill Watering Hole, $15-30, 900 Jefferson St, 15-20 min walk from conference building

Casual spot with a lot of outdoor seating and some indoor seating. Varied menu of American and Asian fusion with vegetarian options.

Johnson's Boucanière, $10-20, 1111 St. John St, 15-20 min walk from conference building

Barbeque spot specializing in boudin (a Louisiana rice and pork sausage) and pork barbeque. Not good for vegetarians.

Laura's Two, $10-20, 1904 W. University Ave, 5 minute drive from conference building. This option will require driving/carpooling, so please note when you sign-up if you can drive. We have included this drive-only option because it is the most celebrated Creole spot in town and has been widely featured in food media.

Saturday Lunch Dine-Around

Scratch Farm Kitchen, $15-30, 2918 Johnston St, 5-10 minute drive from conference building

This option will require driving/car-pooling, so please note when you sign-up if you can drive. We have included this drive-only option because it is one of only two good places with a lot of vegan and vegetarian options that are relatively close. It focuses on local ingredients and plant-centered dishes.

Five Mile Eatery, $10-25, 317 Heymann Blvd, 15 min walk from conference building

Casual, healthy option focused on local ingredients with vegan and gluten-free options.

Dinner Options

Artmosphere, 902 Johnston St, 15-20 min walk from campus, $-$

Basic food (burgers, salads, sandwiches) is less the attraction than the live music that you will find there most nights.

Central Pizza, 423 Jefferson St, 20-25 minute walk from campus, $-$$

Good pizza off a wood-fired grill, solid drinks, and a bustling atmosphere

The Hideaway on Lee, 407 Lee Ave, 20 min walk from campus, $-$$

Similar to Artmosphere in that music outshines the food.

Mae Sone Noodle House, 4807 Johnston St, 15 min drive from conference, $

Serves Laotian and Thai cuisine, with Laotian offerings being especially strong. Try the Japanese eggplant dish, larb, green mango salad, and ladna, among others.

Park Bistro, 407 Brook Ave, 12 minute walk from conference building, $$

Good American seasonal and Italian-influenced fare in a casual atmosphere with a nice patio.

Dinner Options

Pop's PoBoys, 740 Jefferson St, 15-20 minute walk from conference building, $

Pop's serves updated takes on a Louisiana classic-the PoBoy.
They also have salads. One of their salads and one of their poboys are vegetarian-friendly.

Spoonbill Watering Hole, 900 Jefferson St, 15-20 min walk from conference building, $

Casual spot with a lot of outdoor seating and some indoor seating. Varied menu of American and Asian fusion with vegetarian options.

Social Southern Table, 3901 Johnston St, 10 min drive from conference, $$

New Southern, vegetarian options, large drink menu

Vestal Restajurant, 555 Jefferson St, 20 min walk from conference, $$$$

Excellent restaurant featuring local ingredients and a woodfired grill, but with a high price point.

Statement on Land

"The Guilbeau Center for Public History is working on creating land acknowledgement guidelines for the department, the university, and other educational and cultural institutions. We are working with different Indigenous communities to learn more about their particular land acknowledgement protocols. Land Acknowledgement is important because it acknowledges the history of settler colonialism in the United States and that we are uninvited guests on stolen land. It also emphasizes the history of and ongoing presence of hundreds of tribal nations today. So, we would like to acknowledge that UL Lafayette is on the land of the Atakapa-Ishak, and until very recently, this area was known as the Atakapas District under French, Spanish, and American colonialism. We would like to express our gratitude to Elders, past, present, and future, of the dozens of other First Nations in the Louisiana area, including the Chitimacha, Opelousa, Avogel, Tunica-Biloxi, Jena Choctaw, Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians, and Coushatta. We also honor the peoples of African descent who worked this land when it was part of the Mouton family's sugar plantation, Ile Copal. We thank them all for stewarding the land upon which we are carrying out our work today."

We understand the limits of land acknowledgments. We and our institutions have not done the work to, in the words of Joseph Pierce, "return the land to itself." In this context, an acknowledgment can become what Eve Tuck and Wayne Yang term a "settler move to innocence." We will work toward establishing reciprocal relationships with the land going forward and encourage discussion during working groups and panels on this topic.

Quotes from Joseph Pierce, "Your Land Acknowledgment is Not Enough," Hyperallergic, October 12, 2022. Tuck/Yang quote is originally from Eve Tuck and K. Wayne Yang, "Decolonization is not a metaphor," Decolonization: Indigeneity, Education & Society 1, no. 1 (2012): 1-40.
