Greetings from the NCPH President

How appropriate that we are meeting in Pensacola, Florida, a place long identified with numerous cultures and diverse populations, for the “Crossing Borders/Building Communities—Real and Imagined” Annual Meeting. And, if you are traveling from a colder environment like I am, what a pleasant experience it will be to spend several days on the Gulf of Mexico in western Florida.

Patrick Moore and his Local Arrangements Committee have done wonderful work. This annual meeting, held in Historic Pensacola Village, will be the first that NCPH has held at a historic village and this will allow all of us to walk outdoors from session to session, an opportunity to move around not generally available at our annual meetings. Saturday night we will gather under the stars to forget about ice and snow and enjoy the Shrimp Boil Fundraiser. Pensacola tours will examine colonial archaeology, Civil Rights, antebellum industry, the historic waterfront, and nearby Mobile, Alabama. There is even a community service project.

Our Program Committee, skillfully chaired by Roger Launius, has assembled an outstanding program covering an exceptionally diverse set of issues, including African American and Native American history, the teaching of public history, controversial and difficult subjects in public history, locally and internationally focused topics, and much more.

With the Sesquicentennial of the Civil War, NCPH will be on the cutting edge with our plenary presentation by Tony Horwitz, author of the wonderful book, Confederates in the Attic: Dispatches from the Unfinished Civil War, who is presently preparing a book on John Brown. Horwitz will speak about history and remembrance, and how journalism informs his approach to the past. Another plenary session will examine how public historians are negotiating the Sesquicentennial. Among the panelists will be Dwight Pitcaithley, who as Chief Historian of the National Park Service played a pivotal role in getting Civil War parks to address slavery.

I look forward to seeing you in Pensacola April 6–9, 2011.
The conference registration fee covers admission to sessions, breaks, the exhibit room, poster session, the public plenary panel and address, Conference Mentoring Network, and other events, and it entitles each registrant to a conference packet and badge. Some special events require payment of additional fees. Registration rates have increased this year so that we can provide shuttles between the conference hotel and Historic Pensacola Village. All presenters and conference attendees are expected to register for the conference.

Registration is available online at www.ncph.org or by completing the form at the back of this Program. To register by mail, submit the form with a check or credit card information, or fax it with credit card information to (317) 278-5230. Visa, MasterCard, American Express, and Discover. Payment in U.S. dollars, please. Checks should be payable to “NCPH”.

Pensacola, Florida 32502
Phone: (850) 433-3336

$125/night

The Crowne Plaza Pensacola Grand Hotel has a rich heritage dating back to 1912. The hotel is located on the site of the historic L & N railroad passenger depot, which has been restored and now houses the hotel’s lobby, lounges, shops and meeting rooms. Listed in the National Register of Historic Places, the depot was revitalized and care was taken during renovation to restore as much of the building as possible using original materials. Certified by the Florida Green Lodging Program as a “Green Lodge”, the hotel is close to the airport, shopping, dining & minutes away from beautiful Pensacola Beach! Complimentary wireless internet access is available in the guest rooms and common areas throughout the hotel.

Hotel reservations must be made by March 4, 2011, to receive the conference rate. Visit www.ncph.org for online reservation information. Make sure to ask for the “CPH” block. Individuals who find it necessary to cancel their reservations must do so 72 hours prior to their arrival date or forfeit the first night's room and tax.
WELCOME TO PENSACOLA

Welcome to Pensacola, the City of Flags! Located along the picturesque Florida Gulf Coast, Pensacola's past reflects a mixture of cultures and people unique to this part of America.

The Gulf Coast region's present day identity draws upon Native American, European, African, and American influences absorbed through thousands of years of indigenous occupation and over four-hundred and fifty years of European and American settlement. Throughout the past four centuries, ownership of Pensacola changed hands between the Spanish, French, British, American, and Confederate governments on eight separate occasions leaving behind a legacy of multiculturalism evident through the architecture, names, cuisine, and people of the region. In more recent years, Pensacola's location along the Gulf Coast provided an ideal space for the United States Navy to experiment with advances in human flight, lending to the city's alternate nickname, the Cradle of Naval Aviation.

One of the most historic cities in America, Pensacola's incredible past is only rivaled by its equally amazing natural beauty. Nestled between the sugar white beaches of the Gulf of Mexico and the dense pine forests of Northern Florida, Pensacola offers visitors opportunities to explore underwater treasures, wetlands, inland waterways, old growth forests, and much more.

We hope that your time in Pensacola is spent exploring the myriad unique opportunities the region has to offer. We are confident that once you experience our fair city, you will come to know it as we do, “The western gate to the Sunshine State, where thousands live the way millions wish they could!”

THINGS TO DO/SEE IN PENSACOLA

DOWNTOWN PENSACOLA

Destination Archaeology!
Resource Center – 207 E. Main Street

The Florida Public Archaeology Network’s (FPAN) mission is to engage the public by promoting and facilitating the appreciation, value and stewardship of Florida’s archaeological heritage through regional centers and partnerships. The Northwest Regional Center of FPAN is located in downtown Pensacola and houses the Destination Archaeology! Resource Center. Admission is free. Visit and learn about the amazing archaeological sites that you can visit and experience throughout the state. With close to 500 years of European history and more than 10,000 years of Native American history, Florida is host to an array of cultural landmark sites on land and under water. Our exhibit, “A Roadtrip Through Florida Archaeology,” showcases heritage sites open to the public within the eight regions of the FPAN.

St. Michael’s Cemetery – 6
North Alcaniz Street

Located between the conference hotel and Historical Pensacola Village, St. Michael’s Cemetery is an eight-acre green space. Probably in use during the late 18th century, the land was officially designated a cemetery by the King of Spain in 1807. Although assigned to the Catholic inhabitants of Pensacola, people of all faiths have traditionally been buried at St. Michael’s. The cemetery is an open air museum that is a testament to the diverse history of Pensacola. On Saturday, April 9, the cemetery will be the site of “Spirit Day,” an annual public event. (See the “Field Trips” section for more about “Spirit Day” at St. Michael’s.)

Pensacola Little Theatre – 400 S. Jefferson Street

“Alice Through the Looking Glass” April 8-10

Pensacola Little Theatre will present Lewis Carroll’s fanciful tale about a girl who walks through a mirror into a strange and magical world. Tickets are $20-$18-$16-$10 for adults; children 12 and younger are admitted for half price. Note that the Little Theatre will also be the venue for the NCPH Public Plenary (Author Tony Horwitz) on Saturday morning, April 9.

Quayside Art Gallery – (adjacent to the T.T. Wentworth Museum)
17 East Zaragoza Street

Quayside Art Gallery is one of the oldest and largest member-owned art galleries in the United States. From March 23 to April 30, the Quayside Art Gallery will feature “Mind Over Matter” by artists, Diane Goeller, Marian Guthrie, Carol McCreary, and Betty Woods.

Pensacola Museum of Art – 407 South Jefferson Street

Located in downtown Pensacola, the Pensacola Museum of Art is the only major professionally operated museum in Northwest Florida from Mobile to Tallahassee. The Pensacola Museum of Art continues to partner with local schools, the University of West Florida, and other cultural organizations to develop creative programs in the area. Over the past 55 years, the PMA has presented hundreds of exhibitions and thousands of educational opportunities, becoming the foundation for the visual arts in the community.

Palafox Street and Pier

Palafox Street runs north to south and is the main artery of downtown Pensacola. It features multiple storefront shops, restaurants, clubs, and art galleries. At the southern end of Palafox Street is the Palafox Pier, which offers breathtaking views of the waterfront and sunset.

Veterans Memorial Park - Bayfront Pkwy, 9th Avenue

Pensacola’s Veterans Memorial Park features monuments that honor soldiers who have served in World War I, World War II, the Korean War, or the Vietnam War.

PENSACOLA BEACH AND GULF BREEZE

Casino Beach – 735 Pensacola Beach Blvd., Pensacola Beach

Located on Santa Rosa Island, one of the longest barrier islands in the world, Pensacola Beach has an old Florida feel with natural beaches, local eateries, top-notch fishing and historic Fort Pickens. Pensacola Beach has been named among the nation’s top 10 beaches by Tripadvisor. At 1,471 feet, the pier is one of the longest on the Gulf of Mexico. The Portofino Boardwalk features open-air bars and restaurants, shops, piers, and shallow water for kids along Santa Rosa Sound. Visitors can access Gulf Islands National Seashore on both sides of Pensacola Beach, perfect for biking, snorkeling, or kayaking.

Key Sailing – 500 Quietwater Beach Rd., Pensacola Beach

Key Sailing is located on beautiful snow-white sandy beaches near the Pensacola Beach Portifino Boardwalk. Easy to get to and accessible by trolley.

SCUBA Excursions

Conference attendees interested in exploring the natural underwater landscape or the many historic shipwrecks in the area may contact one of these suggested dive shops for information on dives and pricing.

MBT Dive and Surf Shop – 3920 Barrancas Ave, Pensacola, (850) 455-7702

Gulf Coast Dive Pros – 7203 W. Hwy. 98, Pensacola, (850) 456-8845

Chase-N-Fins Aquatic Tours – 655 Pensacola Beach Blvd., Pensacola Beach

Aquatic Charters offers two-hour dolphin cruises aboard “Chase-N-Fins” in Pensacola Bay and Santa Rosa Sound. Watch bottle nose dolphins in their natural environment. Along the way, passengers can enjoy a sightseeing tour of the surrounding area including Fort Pickens, Fort Barrancas, Fort McRee and the South Carolina militia, who fought with distinction in several Revolutionary War battles. He also led several campaigns against the Cherokees, who called him “Wizard Owl.” Ten concrete gun batteries, including one in the middle of the historic fort, were built from the 1890s through the 1940s, each a response to a particular threat. Atomic bombs, guided missiles, and long-range bombers made such constructions obsolete by the end of World War II, and the Army abandoned the forts. Pickens became part of a popular Florida State Park until the creation of Gulf Islands National Seashore in 1971. Following extensive repairs by the National Park Service, the fort was reopened in 1976.
Things to Do/See in Pensacola

The Board of Directors, staff, and volunteers of West Florida Historic Preservation, Inc. are pleased to help host the 2011 NCPH annual conference. Our museum complex is a direct support organization of the University of West Florida. We manage over 28 properties spread over nine acres in the historic heart of downtown Pensacola, just a few blocks south of the conference hotel. We are delighted to make our historic houses, museums, and archaeological resources in Historic Pensacola Village available to you, as a registrant of the 2011 NCPH Annual Meeting, with no admission fee. Please be sure to have your conference credentials visible when you come to either of the three visitor services desks—one is located at the T. T. Wentworth, Jr., Florida State Museum (330 S. Jefferson St.), another is at the Tivoli High House (205 E. Zaragoza St.), and one is at the Pensacola Historical Museum (115 E. Zaragoza St.). Our facilities are open from 10:00 am until 4:00 pm, Tuesday through Saturday. Tours of our historic house museums are offered daily at 11:00 am, 1:00 pm, and 2:30 pm and last about 90 minutes. The Barkley House tour is available separately each day at 2:00 pm. Be sure to make time to explore the long and diverse history of our city. We promise, if you will give us a few hours during the conference, we will give you 450 years in return.

Public History Community Service Project at Historic Fort Pickens

Wednesday, April 6; 12:30 pm – 5:00 pm
Free but must preregister
Guide: Roy Oberto, University of West Florida

As an active “thank you” to the Pensacola community for hosting this year’s NCPH annual meeting, graduate students and other NCPH members have the opportunity to spend part of the conference’s first day helping with a service project. Working with the National Park Service (NPS) Staff at Fort Pickens, participants will learn about the Fort’s fascinating history as they help clear away debris around a historic gun battery overlooking the Gulf of Mexico covered after hurricanes Ivan and Katrina. Completed in 1834, the fort was one of only four in the South that were never occupied by Confederate forces during the Civil War. NPS will provide protective gloves and tools. The service project is contingent upon the number who sign up (by March 1) and upon environmental conditions. Vans depart from and return to the Museum of Commerce (Village). Sponsored by the NCPH Graduate Student Committee. (Limit 20 participants.)
Colonial Archaeological Trail Walking Tour
Friday, April 8; 9:00 am – 11:00 am
Ticket: $12
Guide: Elizabeth Benchley, University of West Florida

Beneath Pensacola’s modern streets and buildings is a treasure of archaeological resources dating back to the 18th century. Explore the colonial archaeological trail and learn about the cities early Spanish and British inhabitants through discussions with local archaeologists involved in ongoing excavations. View into the past through the eyes of an archaeologist and visit the 18th-century Spanish Presido de San Miguel and British Fort of Pensacola. Duration: 1.5 to 2 hours. Departs from the Museum of Commerce (Village). (Limit 40 participants.)

From Black Slaves to Blue Angels: Exploring NAS Pensacola
Friday, April 8; 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm
Ticket: $24
Guides: University of West Florida

Established in 1828, the Pensacola Naval Yard has served the U.S. military for over 175 years. This tour will include stops at early Naval Yard locations, Civil War era fortifications, and the renowned National Naval Aviation Museum. Participants will be able to see firsthand how the Naval Yard developed during the antebellum and post-civil war periods and how it made its amazing transformation following the advent of modern aviation. Special emphasis will be placed on the unique nature of the antebellum black labor force employed by the United States military and utilized to construct many of Pensacola’s most recognizable landmarks. Bus departs from the Museum of Commerce (Village) and returns to the Crowne Plaza Hotel. (Limit 45 participants.)

Historic Pensacola Waterfront Walking Tour
Saturday, April 9; 8:30 am – 11:00 am
Ticket: $12
Guide: University of West Florida

Pensacola’s waterfront is one of the most significant areas related to the city’s development. This tour, organized by the Florida Public Archaeology Network (FPAN), will explore the changes in Pensacola’s maritime landscape and the people and businesses that aided in the growth of the port and city. During a scenic walk along the bay, participants will learn about the geography and history that has shaped the development of modern Pensacola. Topics will include the physical changes in the maritime landscape, the major industries historically supported by the port, and the unique cosmopolitan couture that grew up among the busy wharves and fish houses. FPAN’s mission is to engage the public by promoting and facilitating the appreciation, value and stewardship of Florida’s archaeological heritage through regional centers and partnerships. The Northwest Regional Center of FPAN is located in the downtown. Duration: 2.5 hours. Departs from the Museum of Commerce (Village). (Limit 40 participants.)

Living-Learning Workshop in Action: Behind the Scenes at Historic Pensacola Village
Saturday, April 9; 1:30 pm – 3:30 pm
Ticket: $6
Guides: WFHPI Staff and UWF Graduate Students

This tour will take visitors on a behind-the-scenes look at the University of West Florida’s historical learning laboratory, the fully operational Historic Pensacola Village. The tour will include presentations by West Florida Historic Preservation, Inc. Staff and UWF graduate students on educational programs, archives, emergency responses, living history, graduate residential facilities and more. Participants will be granted access to the WFHPI archives and curation facilities as well as non-public areas of the museums and offices. Duration: 1.5 -2 hours. Departs from the Museum of Commerce (Village). (Limit 25 participants.)

Get in the Spirit at St. Michael’s Cemetery
Saturday, April 9, 10 am – 2:00 pm
Free and open to the public

St. Michael’s Cemetery is the oldest and most significant historic site that survives above ground in the City of Pensacola and is located just south of the conference hotel on S. Alcaniz Street. Join in this annual public event, featuring students from the University of West Florida sharing their research on individuals and their associated funerary architecture. See demonstrations from masonry conservators and historic metals specialists; create GIS searches for individuals in the cemetery; and learn about cleaning techniques, vegetation control methods, simple resets for stone markers, and remote sensing techniques. You may also participate in “From Compass to Total Station: Surveying the Colonial Landscape of Historic St. Michael’s Cemetery,” a hands-on experience in surveying circa-1810 Pensacola coupled with the cutting edge technology in use today. A number of groups will provide period music at various sites in the cemetery throughout the day.
SPECIAL EVENTS

Please purchase tickets online or using the form at the back of this Program. Tickets purchased during early registration will be included in your conference materials at the annual meeting. Space is limited. Events may be cancelled due to lack of participation. In the event of cancellation, those registered will receive a full refund. A limited number of tickets may be available for purchase at the conference registration desk.

Opening Reception

Wednesday, April 6, 5:30 pm – 6:30 pm
Barkley House (Historic Pensacola Village)
Tickets - $5

Program Chair Roger Launius and Local Arrangements Chair Patrick Moore welcome you to Pensacola for the NCPH Annual Meeting. Park your suitcase and enjoy light hors d’oeuvres, drinks, and congenial conversation in the historic Barkley House, located in Historic Pensacola Village, overlooking Pensacola Bay. Join the festivities and help thank West Florida Historic Preservation, Inc. for allowing NCPH to use the village for so much of the conference. Sponsored by History™.

Dine Arouneds

Wednesday, April 6, 6:30 pm – 9:00 pm
Sign up at conference. The cost of dinner is the responsibility of the attendee.

NCPH Dine Arouneds are an informal opportunity to talk about intriguing issues, make new contacts, and get a taste of the conference city. A couple of months before the annual meeting, individuals who volunteer to be facilitators suggest topics for discussion. Facilitators also find suitable restaurants, make reservations for the groups, and provide final titles/topics for the dine arounds. To participate, find the sign-up sheet in the conference registration area and be prepared to talk. Your facilitator will lead the group to the restaurant and start the evening’s conversation.

First-Time Attendee & New Member Breakfast

Thursday, April 7, 7:30 am – 8:30 am
Grand Central Room (Crowne Plaza)
Tickets - $22

Join the Membership Committee and other first-time conference attendees and new members for conversation, coffee, and a delicious southern-style breakfast buffet. This is a great way to meet new and old members of the organization and to learn more about NCPH, the conference, and the field of public history. Sponsoring by the Membership Committee.

Speed Networking

Thursday, April 7, 8:30 am – 10:30 am
Ballroom (Crowne Plaza)
Tickets – FREE but advance registration is required

For the third year in a row, NCPH will offer a professional twist on “speed dating,” creating stress-free networking opportunities at the annual meeting. Graduate students, recent graduates, and new professionals will have the opportunity to meet with five established public history practitioners over the course of five fifteen-minute rotations. Before the buzzer sounds, participants may discuss career options, professional development, and any other aspects of the field. Prepare some questions in advance, bring your business cards, and expect to talk and listen a lot! Advance registration is required and space is limited. Organized by Denise Meringolo and Melissa Bingmann. Sponsoring by the Curriculum and Training Committee and the Graduate Student Committee.

Public Plenary Panel

“The Coming of the Civil War Sesquicentennial and Public History”

Thursday, April 7, 6:00 pm – 7:30 pm
Crowne Plaza Pensacola Grand Hotel, Grand Ballroom
FREE and Open to the Public
Sponsored by the Tennessee Civil War National Heritage Area. Sponsoring by the Florida Humanities Council.

Moderator:

Carroll Van West is the director of the Tennessee Civil War National Heritage Area and the cochair of the Tennessee Civil War Sesquicentennial Commission. He also is the director of the Center of Excellence in Historic Preservation at Middle Tennessee State University.

Panelists:

Michael A. Allen is the Community Partnership Specialist for the Gullah Geechee Cultural Heritage Corridor/Fort Sumter National Monument and Charles Pinckney National Historic Site. A community activist, Allen has a deep-seated interest in our nation’s spiritual growth as it relates to the history and culture. He has also been involved in designing exhibits and presenting interpretive programs that involve local communities and history to attract non-traditional audiences to National Park Service sites. An additional focus has been the inclusion of the socio-economical and political influences that brought the country to Civil War. He was recently appointed to the South Carolina Civil War Sesquicentennial Committee.

Connie Lester is an associate professor of history at the University of Central Florida. She has been editor of the Florida Historical Quarterly since 2005. She is editing the Civil War diaries of the southern writer Lucy Virginia French and is working on a book-length manuscript on Mississippi economic development in the twentieth century. She is the interim Director of the RICHES of Central Florida program and the author of Up From the Mudsills of Hell: The Farmers’ Alliance, Populism, and Progressive Agriculture in Tennessee, 1870-1915 (2006) and several articles on southern history.

Dwight Pitcaithley is professor of history at New Mexico State University. He retired from the National Park Service in June 2005 after serving as chief historian for ten years. During his thirty-year career with the NPS, he focused on issues relating to historic preservation and the interpretation of historic sites. He has served as president of the National Council on Public History and the George Wright Society. His most recent publications include The Antiquities Act: A Century of American Archaeology, Historic Preservation, and Nature Conservation, co-editor (2006), and chapters in Becoming Historians (2009) and Slavery and Public History: The Tough Stuff of American Memory (2006).
Timothy B. Smith is a veteran of the National Park Service who now teaches history at the University of Tennessee at Martin. He is the author or editor of seven books on the Civil War, with an emphasis on the early efforts of battlefield preservation: This Great Battlefield of Shiloh, The Golden Age of Battlefield Preservation, and A Chickamauga Memorial. Smith is currently working on an examination of Corinith’s critical role in the Civil War as well as a 150-year history of Civil War battlefield preservation.

Poster Session and Reception
Friday, April 8, 3:30 pm – 5:30 pm, setup begins at 2:30
Ballroom A & B (Crowne Plaza)
FREE; registration not required to attend
Poster sessions will be on display and their creators will be available to discuss the projects. Light hors d’oeuvres will be served. The Poster Session is a format for public history presentations about projects that use visual evidence. It offers an alternative for presenters eager to share their work through one-on-one discussion, can be especially useful for work-in-progress, and may be a particularly appropriate format for presentations where visual or material evidence represents a central component of the project. Soak in the exhibitry and chat with history practitioners who have put their work on display.

National Naval Aviation Museum Banquet
Friday, April 8, 6:00 pm – 10:00 pm
Tickets - $55
Bus departs from Crowne Plaza at 6:00 pm.
It is the 100th anniversary of the first landing of an airplane onboard a ship, thus, our 2011 meeting marks the centennial of naval aviation. Pensacola is home to the National Naval Aviation Museum, a world-renowned, sprawling complex featuring more than 150 restored aircraft. Join us for an IMAX film, “The Magic of Flight,” dinner, and a presentation by historian of science and technology, Richard P. Hallion. Ticket price includes transportation to the museum, admission to the IMAX film, and dinner.

Richard P. Hallion is the author or editor of numerous books and articles relating to aerospace technology and military operations and served as Senior Adviser for Air and Space Issues, Directorate for Security, Counterintelligence and Special Programs Oversight, at the Pentagon. Since his retirement from government service he has remained active as an historian and public speaker.

Awards Breakfast and Business Meeting
Saturday, April 9, 8:00 am – 10:00 am
Ballroom (Crowne Plaza)
Tickets - $24
Help celebrate the best in public history! The annual awards ceremony provides a look at some of the most innovative work and admirable accomplishments in the profession today. The NCPH Business Meeting, the awards event, and remarks by guest speaker Stephanie Toothman are open to all conference registrants, though a ticket is required for the breakfast meal. Attendees without tickets will be admitted after the meal has begun and are welcome to seats in the back or sides of the room.

Public Plenary — Tony Horwitz
Saturday, April 9, 11:00 am – 12:30 pm
Pensacola Little Theatre
FREE and open to the public
Shuttle will run between the Crowne Plaza, the Solé Inn, the Village, and the Pensacola Little Theatre for event.

Pulitzer-prize winning writer Tony Horwitz will speak about history and remembrance, and how journalism informs his approach to the past. His current book project, on John Brown and his 1859 raid, appropriately for 2011, falls at the intersection of events to mark the Sesquicentennial of the Civil War and the tenth anniversary of 9/11. Horwitz is the author of several bestselling books including Confederates in the Attic: Dispatches from the Unfinished Civil War (1998) and A Voyage Long and Strange: On the Trail of Vikings, Conquistadors, Lost Colonists, and Other Adventurers in Early America (2008). He worked for many years as a reporter, first in Indiana and then during a decade overseas in Australia, Europe, Africa, and the Middle East, mostly covering wars and conflicts as a foreign correspondent for The Wall Street Journal. He worked as a staff writer for The New Yorker before becoming a full-time author. Registration not required.

Stephanie Toothman became Associate Director for Cultural Resources, National Park Service, in 2009. Toothman’s 32-year career in the NPS has ranged from serving as a preservation planner in Washington, DC, a regional historian, acting superintendent at Crater Lake National Park and the National Mall and Memorial Parks during the 2009 presidential inauguration, to being the chief of cultural resource park and partnership programs in the NPS Pacific West Region.
Documentary Screening—Soul of a People
Saturday, April 9, 1:30 pm – 3:15 pm
Ballroom A (Crowne Plaza)
FREE

Soul of a People: Writing America's Story is a film about a chaotic and influential publishing venture. In the Great Depression, while hundreds of thousands survived by wielding picks and shovels on WPA jobs, a smaller cadre used pen, paper, and the spirit of invention. Their task: create America's first-ever self-portrait in the WPA guides. This documentary offers a compelling window into that experience. Registration not required.

Documentary Screening—On These Shoulders We Stand
Saturday, April 9, 3:30 pm – 5:00 pm
Ballroom A (Crowne Plaza)
FREE

Not everything began with Stonewall. On These Shoulders We Stand provides an illuminating historical account of early gay life and activism in Los Angeles told by the people who lived it. Elder members of the Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender community in Los Angeles chronicle gay life from the 1950s into the early 1980s. The documentary brings to light Los Angeles’ significant, yet hidden, role in U.S. gay history by interweaving first-person accounts with narration and seldom-seen archival materials. Filmmaker Glenne McElhinney will engage in a Q&A session with the audience following the screening of the film. Registration not required.

Shrimp Boil Fundraiser
Saturday, April 9, 6:00 pm – 9:30 pm
Grassy area beside the Museum of Commerce (Village)
Tickets - $42 Non-Students/$32 Students

You are cordially invited to help close the 2011 Annual Meeting with a delicious, fresh-caught, fresh-cooked outdoor meal. While eating and drinking with new and old friends, you will be contributing to the NCPH Endowment Fund, which makes possible the awards and other vital programs of the organization.

Entertainment provided by Dr. Breeze. Drinks provided by Pensacola Bay Brewery.

EXHIBITS

We invite you to visit the book publishers and other organizations exhibiting in the Museum of Commerce, next to conference registration, throughout the meeting.

Exhibit Hours

THATCamp NCPH

“Public History in a Digital, Collaborative Realm”
Wednesday, April 6, 9:00 am - 5:00 pm
Grand Central Room (Crowne Plaza)
Tickets - $21 (registration closes March 15; limit 65 participants; minimum 30)

THATCamp NCPH is an “unconference” that brings together history practitioners working in the digital humanities. Participants work on projects, solve problems, and share ideas in a day-long learning laboratory. Open to graduate students, scholars, librarians, archivists, museum professionals, interested amateurs, developers and programmers, administrators, and funders from the nonprofit and for-profit sectors, the workshop emphasizes collegial work aimed at strengthening skills and projects directly applicable in participants’ own institutions and programs. Staff from the Center for History and New Media (CHNM) will facilitate.

Started in 2008, the CHNMs THAT Camps have been enthusiastically received by participants at twenty camps to date, and appear to be morphing into an international movement! The format dispenses with formal presentations and allows campers to design hands-on sessions around topics, tasks, or technologies of particular interest to them. The nonhierarchical, non-disciplinary, and project-oriented approach is ideally suited to the field of public history. Come for THATCamp, stay for the NCPH 2011 Annual Meeting!

Reading Artifacts: A Workshop in Material Culture

Wednesday, April 6, 12:30 pm – 4:00 pm
Museum of Commerce Classroom (Village)
Tickets - $27

Facilitators: Anna Adamek, Canada Science and Technology Museum; Sharon Babaian, Canada Science and Technology Museum; Krista Cooke, Canadian Museum of Civilization; Emily Gann, Carleton University; and Elizabeth Monroe, Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis

Knowing how to examine, read, and interpret material objects is especially important for public historians not just because they may have to work with collections but also because artifacts are a powerful means of engaging the public in discussions about the past. Based on the award-winning Summer Institute in Reading Material Culture offered by the Canada Science and Technology Museum, this workshop will offer a unique learning experience in applying material culture methodologies and techniques. Using artifacts as the center of discussion and hands-on activities, facilitators will show participants how to use objects as resources for research, teaching, and the public presentation of history. Participants will examine artifacts and trade literature and learn how to read and understand them; work side-by-side with experienced scholars from museums and universities to explore different material culture methodologies and approaches; and learn some basics of conservation, cataloguing, and developing collections. (Limit 25 participants.)

The Role of Interpretation in Institutional Sustainability

Wednesday, April 6, 1:00 pm – 4:00 pm
Bowden Bldg. Classroom 1 (Village)
Tickets - $10

Facilitator: Patricia Mooney-Melvin, Loyola University Chicago

Virtually all small museums, historical societies, and historic house museums grapple with issues of institutional sustainability. Certainly, sound institutional health is the result of a multifaceted approach to a site’s organization and operation. Interpretation represents a very public institutional face. This session explores the role of interpretation in strengthening a site’s public appeal, credibility, and sustainability. Participants will focus on the role of interpretation in site sustainability and discuss best practices in this area. (Limit 50 participants.) Workshop participants may also be interested in attending the “America Doesn’t Need Another House Museum” session, at 3:45 pm – 5:15 pm, Saturday.

Entrepreneurship and the Practice of History

Wednesday, April 6, 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm
Bowden Bldg. Classroom 2 (Village)
Tickets - $40

Facilitators: Brian Martin, History Associates, Inc.; Michelle McClellan, University of Michigan; Darlene Roth, Public History Entrepreneur; and workshop facilitator, Phil Borden, Essergy Consulting.

As an experiment in continuing education for practicing or teaching historians who seek to expand professional horizons and explore new ways to do history, NCPH is offering an entrepreneurship workshop. Entrepreneurs are often held up as the iconic embodiment of the innovation, creativity, drive, and passion undergirding the American economy. Many businesses and professions view entrepreneurs as paving the pathways to the future. But what really defines entrepreneurship or intrapreneurship (its related practice in established organizations)? What skills are involved? How might the practice of entrepreneurship expand the range of opportunities available to professional historians and redefine the future of our profession? This workshop is an outgrowth of the 2010 working group on connecting academic training with the changing marketplace, which recommended among other things that NCPH examine the various approaches to continuing education adopted by other disciplines and begin to pilot the most promising approaches in ways that involve both teachers and practitioners. (Limit 25 participants.)

Conference Connection—Mentoring
Are you new to NCPH or attending the NCPH annual meeting for the first time? Or, are you a veteran of NCPH or annual meetings who is willing to assist a new attendee? For the Pensacola annual meeting, NCPH will match students and new professionals with experienced public historians. If you are interested, let us know by checking the box on the annual meeting registration form. We are looking both for mentors and mentees. Mentors and mentees contact each other by email prior to the conference to agree on a place and time to meet, such as the Opening Reception or some other event both are planning to attend early in the conference. During the conference, mentors share lessons about their own career path and try to introduce their mentee to other public history practitioners. The point is to build networks and share information to maximize the conference experience. Mentors also can give advice about selecting sessions and tours to attend, or making the rounds in a reception, the exhibit hall, or the Poster Session. How do you use this or any conference as a source of professional development, new projects, and new ideas? Guidelines for mentors and mentees are available on the NCPH 2011 Annual Meeting webpage. Must register by March 15.

Public Plenary – Tony Horwitz
Pensacola Little Theatre

Pulitzer-prize winning writer Tony Horwitz will speak about history and remembrance, and how journalism informs his approach to the past. His current book project, on John Brown and his 1859 raid, appropriately for 2011, falls at the intersection of efforts to mark the Sesquicentennial of the Civil War and the tenth anniversary of 9/11. Horwitz is the author of several bestselling books including Confederates in the Attic: Dispatches from the Unfinished Civil War (1998) and A Voyage Long and Strange: On the Trail of Vikings, Conquistadors, Lost Colonists, and Other Adventurers in Early America (2008). He worked for many years as a reporter, first in Indiana and then during a decade overseas in Australia, Europe, Africa, and the Middle East, mostly covering wars and conflicts as a foreign correspondent for The Wall Street Journal. He worked as a staff writer for The New Yorker before becoming a full-time author.

Documentary Screening: Soul of a People: Writing America’s Story
Ballroom A (Crowne Plaza)

Soul of a People: Writing America’s Story is a film about a chaotic and influential publishing venture in history. In the Great Depression, while hundreds of thousands survived by wielding picks and shovels on WPA jobs, a smaller cadre used pen, paper, and the spirit of invention. Their task: create America’s first-ever self-portrait in the WPA guides. This documentary offers a compelling window into that experience.

Documentary Screening: On These Shoulders We Stand
Ballroom A [Crowne Plaza]
Not everything began with Stonewall. On These Shoulders We Stand provides an illuminating historical account of early gay life and activism in Los Angeles told by the people who lived it. Elder members of the Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender community in Los Angeles chronicle gay life from the 1950s into the early 1980s. The documentary brings to light Los Angeles’ significant, yet hidden, role in U.S. gay history by interweaving first-person accounts with narration and seldom-seen archival materials. Filmmaker Glenne McElhinney will engage in a Q&A session with the audience following the screening of the film.

61. America Doesn’t Need Another House Museum
Ballroom C [Crowne Plaza]

Sponsored by the American Association for State and Local History
Inspired by the Kykuit II summit and its recommendations, and the growing abundance of historic house museums in the country, this session will explore other options for historic houses and properties that go beyond the traditional historic house model. The panel will look at examples of successful projects that meet the standards of historic preservation while changing their raison d’etre from a museum model, to turning... these historic structures into centers of study and discuss how public historians can work with history organizations to develop themes and ideas for these new entities.
